

WILLIAM A.K.A. MAN CANNON

---

ABC's of Attraction Certified Instructor

Anyone who thinks that being successful at romantically connecting with the women that they want is an easy process will never succeed. – William a.k.a. Man Cannon

William a.k.a. Man Cannon is the “Dalai Lama of Direct Game.” As the ABCs of Attraction’s newest Certified Instructor, William has seized the attention of seduction students around the world with his ability to channel his Zen-like inner game. William is an expert at transforming students from the inside out, and helping them conquer their approach anxiety and nervousness around the opposite sex, thanks to 1000 hours worth of training with the Asian Playboy.

Before he became one of the ABCs' star pupil-turned-instructors, William ran Fallout Central, the most listened-to Asian-American activism podcast. After his life was transformed by the ABCs of Attraction, William redirected his energies into more constructive and holistic avenues to help his fellow Asian brothers.

As a professional businessman and pick up artist, William knows how to deliver the goods and seal the deal. He is an expert at making pick up seem natural and has helped dozens of students overcome their sticking points with his steady, yet stern methods of coaching.

William has presented workshops on male sexuality at some of the nation’s most prestigious colleges and universities, including Wellesley College, Harvard University and Rutgers University. Additionally, he is the founder of the Better Asian Man blog, daily helps to pave the way for the future of Asian men via his web site and weekly podcasts.

William is based in New York. His current goal in his romance life is to find a girl that he has good chemistry with, and would feel comfortable enough with to someday marry.